Rumelt suggests that the underlying factor contributing to bad strategy is lack of commitment to the hard work. Good strategy, results from investing the time to make the hard choices to gain focus, and identifying obstacles and working out how to deal with them. Rumelt states that there are three key elements that make up good strategy:

Notes from “Good Strategy / Bad Strategy” by Jeff Zych

Good strategy gathers power from its very rareness. [Ch. 1, “Good Strategy is Unexpected”] A great deal of modern writing about strategy deals with the detailed economic logic of “competitive advantage.” Good Strategy/Bad Strategy argues that a coherent strategy can be, by itself, a significant source of competitive advantage. The advantage flows from coordination and focus as well as from resolving the impossible ambiguity of reality into a problem that fits the organization’s ...
