Noninvasive continuous cardiac output monitoring may have wide clinical applications in anaesthesiology, emergency care and cardiology. It can improve outcomes, establish diagnosis, guide therapy...

Non-invasive monitoring of cardiac output

Cardiac Output (CO) with Impedance Cardiography (ICG) Transthoracic Bioimpedance Cardiography (ICG) is the basic noninvasive method which is applied in an improved and completely redesigned version with the Task Force ® Monitor to process cardiovascular parameters such as Stroke Volume (SV), continuous Cardiac Output (CO), Total Peripheral Resistance (TPR), ventricular Ejection Time (VET ...

Utilization of non-invasive CO monitoring may also lead to significant cost savings, derived not only by freeing up expensive ICU space—and ultimately reducing the hours a patient spends in post-operative recovery—but also through foregoing the need to insert a disposable catheter to monitor the patient's hemodynamic status, with an additional cost benefit of approximately US$100 per patient per day.

Our noninvasive CNCO-algorithm is based on pulse contour analysis, where the highly accurate CNAP® blood pressure waveform provides the basis for cardiac output measurements. Two major criteria are used to evaluate the quality of the CNCO method. CNCO meets them both and tracks changes in CO reliably without

The ICON is one of the few devices FDA approved for use in Adults, Children and Neonates which requires no inter-patient calibration. By attaching only 4 standard sensing electrodes to the patients neck and torso the device can quickly provide Heart Rate, Stroke Volume, and Cardiac Output as well as another seventeen derived clinical parameters.

ClearSight system | Edwards Lifesciences

Monitoring cardiac output is a common practice in anaesthesia and critical care. It is used as a marker of oxygen delivery to tissues and can identify patients at high risk of significant morbidity, mortality or both. It is also used in guiding treatment, primarily for fluid resuscitation and the use of vasoactive and inotropic drugs.

PhysioFlow ® is a range of non invasive hemodynamic monitors. They provide continuous, accurate, reproducible and sensitive measurements of cardiac output and other parameters. Their innovative and patented technology is based on the proprietary principles of signal morphology impedance cardiography (SM-ICG TM). Only PhysioFlow ® is proven to work in demanding measurement conditions (highly instrumented ICU, maximal exercise, etc.) and difficult patients (obese, pulmonary oedema ...

Abstract. Objective: To evaluate the clinical utility of a new device for continuous noninvasive cardiac output monitoring (NICOM) based on chest bio-reactance compared with cardiac output measured semi-continuously by thermodilution using a pulmonary artery catheter (PAC-CCO). Design: Prospective, single-center study.
